Hudson Valley Hullabaloo Announces Lineup of Vendors

A stellar mix of handmade and vintage goods will be available Nov 18th & 19th

Kingston, NY (October 17, 2023): Now's the time to grab your shopping bags and start planning your visit to the Hudson Valley Hullabaloo! On Saturday, November 18, from 10 am-5 pm, and Sunday, November 19, from 10 am-4 pm, the Andy Murphy Midtown Neighborhood Center transforms into a festive wonderland featuring the very best in handmade and vintage goods.

This year, 72 vendors will offer everything from jewelry, vintage and handmade clothing, and home goods, to ceramics, artisanal food and drinks, candles, and so much more! The lineup features many returning favorites, including Bold Version Design Co., Cheyenne Mallo Pottery, and Rockerbox Spice Co., as well as new-to-Hullabaloo artisans like Wee Saw, Green Bottle Soap Co., and Atina Foods.

Hullabaloo founder and organizer Danielle Bliss of Wishbone Letterpress, who hosts the event with her husband and business partner Joe Venditti, is looking forward to highlighting an amazing variety of the Hudson Valley's creatives and makers again this year.

"There's a lot of diversity represented in the vendors and their products, and we strive to have a little something for everyone at the Hullabaloo," she said. "We carefully curate not only the lineup of talented craftspeople and small businesses at the Hullabaloo, but also the added event experiences and food options."

This year, the Hullabaloo is excited to feature food and drinks from the Phoenicia Diner, Hole in Wall Donuts, and Samosa Shack.

In addition to being a destination for high-quality, handmade goods, the event will also offer:

- Hand-drawn portraits by Thorneater Comics
- Festive, funky tunes by DJ Mr. Chips
- Winter Photo Booth by Peter Demuth Photography
- Tintype photo booth by Tom DeLooza

Admission to the Hullabaloo is $2 cash (no credit cards or digital payment options), and kids 12 and under can attend for free. Please leave dogs at home, as they are not allowed in the building (unless ADA compliant). The Andy Murphy Midtown Neighborhood Center is located at 467 Broadway in Kingston.
